

City Receives Energy Award from Skagit Council of Governments - April 29, 2010

The City of Sedro-Woolley was recognized by the Skagit Council of Governments for the highest reduction in total energy usage in 2009 among Skagit County cities. Pictured receiving the award is Nathan Salseina (center), Facilities Lead, who is leading the implementation of Sedro-Woolley's conservation program. Also pictured are Kelley Moldstad (left) and Ric Boge (right) from the Skagit Council of Governments.